EACH LEAF: 18.6 × 12.3 CM

This frontispiece painting introduces a copy of the first book in the Persian poet Nizami's Khamasa (Quintet).

The motif is the Prophet Muhammad's mystical ascension to heaven (miraj) on the winged horse Buraq, accompanied by the archangel Gabriel.

Normally the Prophet Muhammad is depicted with his face veiled, out of respect for his holy person. In the 14th century, during the Mongol Il-Khanid dynasty and their successors and under the Timurids, however, the Prophet's face is shown several times – a phenomenon that is also found in later, vernacular art.
