MINIATURE FROM A COPY OF FIRDAWSI'S SHAHNAMA. 'THE SLAYING OF SIYAWUSH'

IRAN, SHIRAZ; END OF 16TH CENTURY

LEAF: 44.5 × 28.3 CM

Evil tongues slander good Prince Siyawush at the court of Afrasiyab, his father-in-law and king of Turan. Finally, the king decides to have Siyawush murdered, and also has his daughter Farangis whipped to make her abort the couple's unborn child. Farangis and her son, Kay Khusraw, miraculously survive, and in time, he revenges his father's dishonorable death.

This both lyrical and horrifying miniature shows the moment at which Siyawush is slaughtered like an animal, taking care not to spill his royal blood on the ground. The horses on the right react to the misdeed, but otherwise all is peaceful in a scene where Chinese clouds and large cranes hover over Iran's eternally blue sky.
